

The Steel Network

Durham, North Carolina

The Steel Network is a veteran owned manufacturer of light gauge, cold-formed steel studs and connectors, with locations in North Carolina, Texas and Nevada. The Steel Network has consistently gone above and beyond to support its Guard and Reserve employees and the veteran community. During the nominator's deployment, the company provided pay and benefits for the Service member, checked in on the family and even paid for a cleaning service for the service member's wife and newborn baby. The Steel Network highlights Service members on the company intranet site, website, and company-wide emails and has provided unique support to the Armed Forces. The company designed the X-hut, a modular housing unit, which is blast proof, self-sufficient, and solar powered for use in the field by Army personnel. The first one was assembled in Afghanistan and given to the Army free of charge. The Steel Network also supports veteran focused organizations including the Travis Manion Foundation and the Triangle Veterans Network. <https://steelnetwork.com/site/ProductLines/Jobs>
